A Chelsea man says he was trying to help an injured deer before a run-in with a local police officer left the animal dead and his truck impounded.

Greg Searle was driving on Route 105 and near home when he saw a young deer on the road, seemingly unable to use its hind legs.

"The woman in front of me had hit it, and so I carried it off the road," he said. "It was kind of kicking and still alive."

He called his wife Samantha Biron, who arrived with their six-year-old daughter Ashiah in tow. They were on their cellphones trying to contact a vet when a police officer arrived on the scene and said the animal had to be put down, according to Searle.

An argument ensued, Searle says, adding that when Biron refused to get out of the way to let the officer shoot the deer, he threatened to arrest her. She left with Ashiah and the policeman killed the animal.

Searle says that on his way home, the same officer pulled him over for having an expired licence plate sticker and impounded his vehicle.

"Yeah, sure that's the law, but I was actually on a country road a couple hundred metres from my house and he could have just let me park it and go get a new sticker for the plate," he said. "I kind of felt that was a bit vengeful of him, perhaps, even though it was legal."

The MRC des Collines-de-l'Outaouais police did not return calls Thursday. In an interview with Quebec newspaper the Low Down to Hull and Back, the force's spokesman Martin Fournel said the officer couldn't legally allow Searle and Biron to drive off with the animal.

Fournel told the paper police are empowered to end an animal's suffering and the constable made a judgment call. Fournel also told the Low Down the impounding of Searle's vehicle was simply the officer doing his job.

Students upset over O-Train shutdown

A proposal to suspend O-Train service to Carleton University on weekends from October to December to construct a new parking garage is likely to be approved next Wednesday. Yet the idea has some student groups upset.

"We pay a really high price for our U-Pass and now we're seeing cuts to service," said Lauren Montgomery, vice president of the university's Graduate Students' Association. Ottawa's OC Transpo U-Pass costs $185. The average Canadian price is $117, she said.

Many students use labs or the library on weekends, or travel from on-campus housing to nearby grocery stores, she said.

Construction of the $22.5 million, three-story, four level garage over the summer was set to put in place a solid, eight-metre-tall, 100-metre-long shell around the O-Train track to allow the train to pass freely as work continued until May 2014 above. The school even asked and got permission from the city June 12 to work around the clock to get it done for the resumption of O-Train service

Sept. 3 after summer track improvements.

Now the work will start Oct. 12 and is expected to run until Dec. 29. An estimated 1,800 trips will be disrupted on Saturdays and 1,100 on Sundays. The school told the city it will pay $138,000 for an OC Transpo bus along a route similar to the train. GRAHAM LANKTREE/METRO

OC Transpo's safety issues get put on hold

Driver safety. City transit was reprimanded in a ruling which said the company needs to come up with a 'workplace violence prevention program'

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

The Occupational Health and Safety Tribunal of Canada has granted the City of Ottawa a stay on an order and directions from the federal government to ensure OC Transpo buses are a safe working environment.

The decision stems from a complaint from a city bus driver who was injured on the job.

On July 5, OC Transpo was reprimanded in a ruling by Human Resources and Skills Development Canada which said the company needs to come up with a "workplace violence prevention program," after it found conditions for drivers unsafe. The ruling came out of a complaint filed by driver Norm MacDuff after he was punched by a passenger on March 26 for questioning an expired transfer.

The city had until Aug.

30 to introduce changes to ensure bus operation was a safe activity. On Aug. 29, the tribunal heard the city's stay application and granted the request.

"This decision means that no further enforcement action can be taken by the HRSDC officer until such time as the City's appeal of his orders/directions is heard, likely later this year," said Rick O'Connor, city solicitor, in a memo to city staff.

"Notwithstanding this, Transit Services staff will continue their ongoing efforts to ensure the safety and security of bus operators."

Wings Over Gatineau-Ottawa Air Show.

Superstar astronaut Chris Hadfield will be at the weekend-long event off Highway 50

Pieces of Canada's aviation history from the Second World War to the Korean War and beyond will fly Gatineau's skies in formation this weekend at the vintage Wings Over Gatineau-Ottawa Air Show.

"It was an invitation that was a dream come true," said Maj. Jeremy Hansen, a CF-18 fighter pilot and astronaut in training, who will fly the RCAF's Golden Hawk F-86 Sabre, a single-seater jet that hails from the Korean War.

"It just flies so beautifully," said Maj. Hansen as he stepped from a test flight

Thursday.

He said that when he attended Canada's Royal Military College in Kingston he used to imagine flying one that is on display at the school.

"I used to look at it and think about how amazing that would be," he added.

"If you follow your dreams or passions, you can make an important contribution to Canada."

Astronaut Chris Hadfield will be at the weekend-long event Sunday as an expected 30,000 people get up close to the legendary aircraft. Aerial demonstrations of the plane will also be a showcase event during the weekend.

Check out dozens of restored planes from the collection this weekend from Sept. 14 to 15. The show takes place at the Gatineau Airport off of Highway 50. Tickets are $20 each. GRAHAM LANKTREE/METRO

The Canadian Federation of Students (CFS) is calling on the federal government to come up with a national strategy to lower the rising cost of tuition fees, which have tripled since 1990, according to an Ottawa-based think-tank.

Jessica McCormick, chairperson for the CFS, said she wasn't surprised when the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives (CCPA) released a study Wednesday that says tuition fees will rise by 13 per cent over the next four years.

"These numbers really underscore the need for steps to be taken by provincial and federal governments to address rising tuition fees," said McCormick.

Ontario has the highest tuition fees in Canada, according to the Degrees of Uncertainty: Navigating the Changing Terrain of University Finance report. The 41-page report said tuition in Ontario is expected to rise from $8,403 this fall to $9,517 in 2016-17.

Newfoundland and Labrador is by far the cheapest province for students, who are expected to pay $2,886 in 2016-17, up from $2,872 today.

"Right now we're one of the only OECD countries that doesn't have a national strategy for post-secondary education," said McCormick.

"(We need to ensure) that there are some levels of accountability to ensure that the provinces are investing in post-secondary education with that money through the Canada Social Transfer."

Simple luxury steals spotlight

Ottawa Fashion Week will kick off Friday night with the simple monochromatic, yet cozy elegance of Lucian Matis' fall and winter collection.

Featuring constructed, almost rigid, yet luxurious silhouettes, Matis pieces are at once artistic and wearable.

"I was trying to experience different techniques," he said of his experiments in basket-woven fur, leather and posh felt fabrics.

Matis said his move to monochrome reflected a turbulent time in his personal life, when he craved simplicity.

Canada doesn't have a wireless competition problem: Report

Are we being gouged?
Study — funded in part by telecom firms — says Canadian users consume more data than those in U.S., U.K.

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

Canadians are wrong to presume the country has a problem with competition among wireless carriers, says a professor at the University of Calgary's School of Public Policy.

Professor Jeffrey Church was on Parliament Hill Thursday to tout the results of a new study, Wireless Competition in Canada: An Assessment, which he co-authored with Andrew Wilkins from the School's Digital Economy Program.

Mobile customers and critics of Canada's wireless landscape have been complaining for years that Canadians are being gouged by the "Big Three" (Rogers, Bell and Telus), mobile contracts are too expensive and that more entrants, whether domestic or foreign companies, would level the playing field and foster more competition.

"The reality is, if you look at Rogers' profitability, Rogers' profitability is not consistent with market power, it's not consistent with gouging. It's consistent with our prices actually tracking costs," said Church. "That's the problem."

Church said the study shows that Canadians are consuming more mobile data than ever before and it is driving prices up compared to other countries. To help illustrate this, the report included 2012 data from Cisco, which shows Canadian mobile subscribers consume more data per month than those in countries like the U.S., the U.K. and Australia.

Church also says he has a problem with the federal government subsidizing new entrants and it is "misguided" in its plan to have four mobile carriers in every region in Canada.

Church emphasized that although the Digital Economy Program receives donations from the private sector — including telecom companies — protocols are in place to ensure the research is not influenced by outside interests, he said.

"The research has to be impartial, and independent, and peer-reviewed appropriately," he said.

The full report is available at policyschool.ucalgary.ca.

Ont. hospital uses Quebec controversy as hiring tool

A poster for Lakeridge Health is shown in this undated handout photo. The Ontario hospital is turning Quebec's proposed restrictions on religious clothing into an opportunity to recruit workers. LAKERIDGE HEALTH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

An Ontario hospital is turning Quebec's proposed restrictions on religious clothing in the public sector into a recruiting drive.

Lakeridge Health in Oshawa, Ont., is putting out an ad on social media and in Montreal's McGill student newspaper seeking doctors and nurses.

The poster depicts a woman wearing a hijab and a stethoscope with the slogan, "We don't care what's on your head, we care what's in it."

The hospital wants to let Quebec's health professionals know there's a great hospital in the Greater Toronto Area that wants them, said hospital spokesman Aaron Lazarus.

Lakeridge has about 230 vacant positions — particularly in nursing — and is hiring about 20 to 60 people a month.

One of Ontario's longest serving MPPs tabled a symbolic motion that calls on the legislature to oppose any bill to restrict or prohibit freedom of expression and religion in public places.

Monte Kwinter, who is Jewish, said Canada's most populous province must assure the world that it would never contemplate legislation like Quebec's charter.

Quebec's proposed "values charter" would prohibit hospital workers and other public sector workers from wearing religious clothing like hijabs, kippas and turbans in the workplace.

Kwinter said there was a mass movement of Quebec's Jewish community to Ontario when the PQ were in power 30 years ago because they were concerned about what was happening in Quebec.

While polls indicate that most respondents in Quebec support the legislation, it's sparked a contentious debate elsewhere in Canada.

Hawkesbury. Work on Fifty Shades of Grey forces Sons of Anarchy's Charlie Hunnam to delay local meet-and-greet Sons of Anarchy star Charlie Hunnam has had to reschedule his planned appearance in Hawkesbury this weekend — seems he's all tied up with shooting Fifty Shades of Grey.

Hunnam, who plays Sons of Anarchy Motorcycle Club Redwood Original (SAMCRO) president Jax Teller on the FX series, was supposed to take part in a VIP meet-and-greet event Saturday at Goulet Motorsports, as well as a motorcycle ride and barbecue Sunday. However, according to a note put up late Thursday on the Harley Davidson dealership's website, the actor's new work commitment trumps the local appearance.

"For those of you who purchased tickets for the evening with Jax (Saturday, Sept. 14), the event has been postponed until Jan. 18 and 19. This change is due to the fact that Charlie Hunnam was cast as Christian Grey in the Fifty Shades of Grey movie in which filming starts this weekend," the notice reads.

The $250-a-person event is a partnership between Goulet Motorsports and Full Throttle Events. It was sold out and followed similar visits from former Sons cast member Ryan Hurst (Opie) in March and current cast member Tommy Flanagan (Chibs) in June.

Hunnam, 33, was to be at Goulet Motorsports Saturday from 5 to 10 p.m. for a meet-and-greet, autograph signing and dinner under a big tent outdoors.

Rally seeks to remind country of rape culture beyond SMU

Wider discourse. SMU got caught with chant, but does not own the problem, poet declares

ALY THOMSON
For Metro in Halifax

An organizer of a rally promoting consensual sex at Saint Mary's University in Halifax says the attitudes on campus surrounding rape and equality need to change.

The rally came after the scandal caused by a frosh event in which hundreds of students took part in a chant that glorified the rape of underage girls.

Roughly 150 people attended Thursday's rally.

Lewis Rendell, 20, said she hoped the incident would spark a wider discussion about rape culture.

Before reading an impassioned poem about a rape victim, Halifax poet laureate El Jones declared that "the problem doesn't belong to SMU."

"SMU didn't create rape culture," Jones told the crowd. "SMU got caught, but everybody else has been doing it."

The chant prompted the resignation of the president of the SMU Students' Association.

According to the university, two student organizers are facing disciplinary action and roughly 80 student leaders will undergo sensitivity training.

Rendell, a board member of the SMU Women's Centre, added that the rally was also protesting the administration's response to the scandal.

A spokesman for SMU said in an email that the school is working with the centre to strengthen their relationship. Steve Proctor said a member of the centre has agreed to sit on the President's Council.

Universities watch and take notes

James Sanford, executive director of student services at Acadia University in Wolfville, N.S., said he expects many school administrators are closely watching Saint Mary's.

Ryan Flanagan, director of student affairs at Carleton University in Ottawa, said the administration became more involved in orientation after student-leadership concerns in 2010.

"If student associations are going to run it, I think you're taking on a risk," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Semantics. Nude bike pitch alters city bylaw

A case of two women wanting a parade permit to ride naked through Winnipeg last year has led to a change in a city bylaw.

On Thursday, Winnipeg Police Service officials spoke in favour of amending a traffic bylaw to include bicyclists as well as pedestrians in the definition of a parade.

Patrol Sgt. Kevin Cisarowski, the police's special events co-ordinator, said the bylaw "didn't address bicyclists at all."

He said that exclusion prevented police from having the authority to issue parade permits for cyclists, meaning bikes had to continue to abide by the Highway Traffic Act, with no side-by-side riding and the required stopping at red lights and stop signs.

As for the naked ride, a permit was not issued, and "it still isn't allowed," said Cisarowski. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO IN WINNIPEG

Ex-Hutterites pen book alleging corruption, sexism, puny wages

Hutterites: Our Story to Freedom. Co-author says the system debases the wonderful colonists

SHANE GIBSON
Metro in Winnipeg

A group of former Hutterite colony members from Manitoba and North Dakota are peeling back the veil on the societies traditionally closed off to the modern world.

Seven years after each individually decided to escape — a move that has caused their communities and much of their families to shun them — the group of nine has published a tell-all account of their sheltered lives.

"This is actually exposing the Hutterites," explained Glenda Maendel, adding their book was written as much for those still living in colonies

Allegations

"The mindset you had there was that everything is evil out here and you'd go to hell if you leave the colony."

Co-author Glenda Maendel

as it was for those on the outside.

"The mindset you had there was that everything is evil out here and you'd go to hell if you leave the colony."

"It's for people to see that there is hope and freedom out there."

Hutterites: Our Story to Freedom was released in August, and each of the former members takes a chapter to tell their personal story. The accounts describe a corrupt system of sexism, favouritism and unfair wages, in which members work for $3 to 5 a month while the colony coffers grow.

"We love the Hutterite people, but it's the system that ruins the people," said Maendel.

The book also looks at the struggles each of the nine went through after leaving their communities for a new world with nothing but the clothes on their backs.

"It took years to adjust," said another of the authors, Titus Waldner.

"Inside the colony you're not invited to express yourself as an individual.... To come out of that and now just start being open and sharing and know who you are as a person — it doesn't happen overnight."

DEA: 30 kilos of cocaine headed for Alberta town

Seven charged. Most accused believed to be members of a Mexican Mennonite community with ties to infamous Juarez drug cartel

JEREMY NOLAÏS

Metro in Calgary

American drug-enforcement officers allege a southeast Alberta hamlet was the destination for a haul of cocaine being moved through a pipeline involving the Mennonite community and a notorious Mexican cartel.

The Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) laid charges against seven people in relation to the alleged trafficking operation this week. It's believed all but one of the accused were members of a Mexican Mennonite community in the state of Chihuahua and had direct links to the Juarez drug cartel, widely considered to be one of the most brutal criminal organizations in the world.

The drug bust involved 11,000 pounds of marijuana that agents believe was to be distributed to various states in the U.S. and 30 kilograms of cocaine that DEA Assistant Special Agent in Charge Kevin Merrill said was bound for Grassy Lake, Alta., a small hamlet located about an hour east of Lethbridge.

"We had targets that we had identified through phone records that they were talking to up there," he said, adding more charges in connection with the drug bust were possible.

Merrill indicated his organization worked with Canadian authorities, but a request for comment from RCMP's federal communications office had not been returned at press time.

Mennonites are members of a church that has been around for nearly 500 years, according to a national website.

"Today, you won't recognize most Mennonites by how they dress," the posting reads. "But you will find vibrant Mennonite congregations through rural areas, small towns and large cities across Canada and throughout the world."

Southeastern Alberta in particular became a common migration point for Mennonites from Mexico and Bolivia in the 1990s. According to 2001 census data, the total Mennonite population in Alberta was 22,785 and in some smaller towns and hamlets, including Grassy Lake, the community can account for up to three quarters of the population.

Merrill said Mexican cartels tend to rely on family ties or close friends when it comes to their trafficking operations because, "It limits the number of people, if they get arrested, that will co-operate against them."

Cyberbullied Florida teen commits suicide

A 12-year-old girl committed suicide after she was bullied online by more than a dozen girls, and a sheriff said Thursday he's investigating filing charges under a Florida cyberbullying law.

Sheriff Grady Judd said that Rebecca Ann Sedwick jumped to her death on Monday. Investigators say the girl was despondent after others had posted hate messages about her online. Sedwick was "absolutely terrorized on social media," Judd said.

The Lakeland Ledger reports detectives found social media applications where Sedwick was bullied with messages, including "Go kill yourself," and "Why are you still alive?"

Judd said parents of all 15 girls have co-operated with detectives and several cellphones and laptops have been confiscated. Judd said charges could be filed.

Toronto cop guilty of assault with a weapon

G20. Judge said the officer was trying to 'justify his blows' when he claimed only to be responding to resistance

Assault victim Adam Nobody
ALLISON JONES/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The criminal conviction of a Toronto police officer for assaulting a protester during the G20 summit three years ago is being hailed as a victory for the hundreds of demonstrators who were rounded up and arrested that weekend.

Const. Babak Andalib-Goortani was convicted Thursday of assault with a weapon after a judge found he used excessive force during the arrest of protester Adam Nobody on June 26, 2010, at the legislature.

Andalib-Goortani didn't need to forcefully jab Nobody with his baton several times as his fellow officers were trying to cuff the man, Ontario Superior Court Judge Louise Botham found.

"A police officer is not entitled to use unlimited force to affect an arrest," she said.

Video of Nobody's arrest shows him on the ground with officers piled on top of him. Andalib-Goortani's explanation "that he was responding to Adam Nobody's resistance is nothing more than an after-the-fact attempt to justify his blows," said the judge. Nobody clapped as the verdict was announced. A sentencing hearing is set for Nov. 8. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Telecom. Vodafone UK CEO to head up Rogers

The chief executive of U.K.-based Vodafone Group has been hired as the new president and CEO of Toronto's Rogers Communications Inc. and plans to take over just ahead of a wireless auction that will see Canada's telecom companies compete for radio waves to expand their cellphone networks.

Biometrics. iPhone hype may benefit Canuck firm

Karl Martin was thrilled when Apple officially unveiled the fingerprint-reading technology that's built into the new iPhone 5S — even though it could be perceived as competition for his Toronto-based business.

He's hoping the hype around fingerprint scanning will create excitement around other biometrics technologies, including the Nymi, his company's bracelet that promises to read a user's heart rhythm and use it as a form of authentication.

that could replace online passwords, keys and other security measures.

Bionym is currently taking pre-orders for the device, expected to be released next spring, for $79. The device takes an electrocardiogram when a user wearing it on their wrist touches it with their opposite hand. Martin, CEO of Bionym, says a cardiac rhythm is as unique as a fingerprint, so the device could be used to confirm a person's identity. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Glued to your desk at work? Cross that off the list of excuses for not having the time to exercise.

A growing number of Americans are standing, walking and even cycling their way through the workday at treadmill desks, standup desks or other moving workstations. Others are forgoing chairs in favour of giant exercise balls to stay fit.

Walking on a treadmill while making phone calls and sorting through emails means "being productive on two fronts," said Andrew Lockerbie, senior vice-president of benefits at Brown & Brown, a global insurance consulting firm.

Lockerbie can burn 350 calories a day walking about five to six kilometres on one of two treadmill desks that his company's Indianapolis, Ind., office purchased earlier this year.

"I'm in meetings and at my desk and on the phone all day," he said. "It's great to be able to have an option at my work to get some physical activity while I'm actually doing office stuff. You feel better, you get your blood moving, you think clearly."

BY GEORGE! WHAT A CURSE

Those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer are over, and now it's time to pay attention. So, if you're wondering what to pay attention to ...

1 Charter chowder. The Parti Québécois unveils its "charter of values," banning the wearing of religious symbols on the job for the province's civil servants. No burkas or turbans or yarmulkes, please. The charter has already claimed its first victim, MP Maria Mourani, who was kicked out of the Bloc Québécois caucus for daring to disagree with her fellow separatists, calling the charter a "political miscalculation." It is that, never mind what else it is.

2 iPhone. Apple unveils its latest iPhones to the usual media frenzy. One is "cheap," just under 100 bucks in the U.S., while the other is so expensive, it induces nosebleeds. But you can lock it with your fingerprint, so you'll never have to worry about forgetting your passcode as it comes permanently attached.

3 Hockey Night in Canada, almost. The boys of summer are still out there tearing up the grass, but the boys of winter are already back at the rink getting ready for a 1,230-game season that culminates on April 13, 2014, in the final game between the Dallas Stars and the Phoenix Coyotes. And then the playoffs begin. Are you ready for some, er, a lot of hockey?

4 Harry Potter sequel — NOT. Hollywood is rocking with the news that Harry Potter author J.K. Rowling is going to write her first screenplay about the world of wizards. Too bad it's about Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them, which really has nothing to do with Harry Potter, "the boy who lived," presumably to spawn a sequel ... someday.

Rowling seems to have a perverse need to deny her millions of fans the one thing they do want. Curses! As in Avada Kedavra!

5 From Russia, with petulance. Russian President Vladimir Putin has the nerve to preach to America about being good global citizens and avoiding military action in Syria in an op-ed piece in the New York Times. His article has the unanticipated side-effect of doing what President Obama has never been able to do: Unite the fractious U.S. Congress. A Republican senator believes Ronald Reagan is turning over in his grave, while a Democratic senator said the article nearly made him vomit. No word on a sequel.

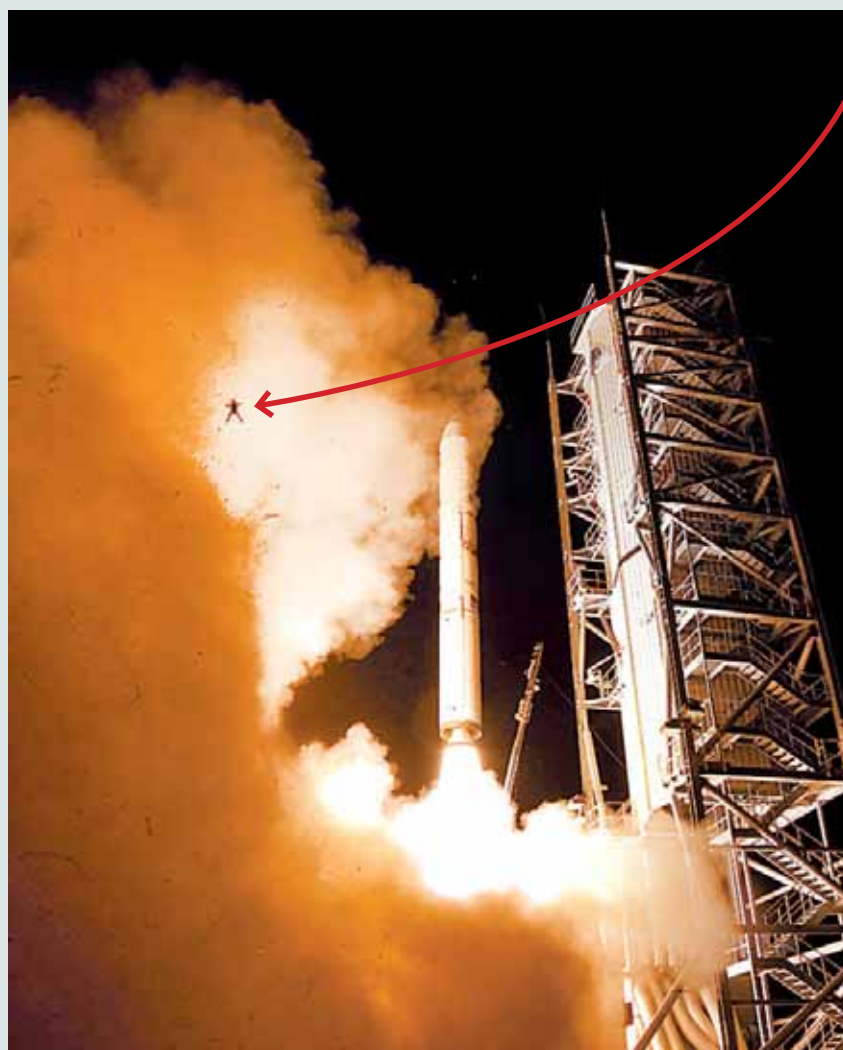

6 Ain't gonna study war no more. After flying 156 missions and helping to rescue 149 people, Prince William is retiring from his job as a U.K. military rescue chopper pilot after seven-and-a-half years. He will now shift his focus to rescuing endangered animals — he has recorded a video calling for an end to the ivory and rhino horns trade. Presumably his other hazardous duty will include getting up in the middle of the night to change the royal diapers on baby George.

Frog launches with NASA rocket

Frogs have been sautéed, baked and deep-fried. But not until the latest NASA moon launch has one ever been seen blasted by a rocket.

The likely unfortunate event occurred Sept. 6, when a frog got an unexpected front-row seat to the liftoff of NASA's lunar explorer, known as LADEE. When the rocket unleashed its 361,000 pounds of thrust, more than the spacecraft took off.

The moment was captured in an extraordinary photograph posted on NASA's website.

RE: Rape Not One Of The Three R's, says Paul Sullivan, published Sept. 12

"The tongue of the wise commends knowledge, but the mouth of the fool gushes folly." In wake of the "pro-rape chant" disgrace at SMU and UBC lately, it seems evident to me that universities have become hotbeds of foolishness, instead of the bastions of wisdom. I agree that the university leadership's reaction is one similar to the deer in headlights. They've long known that stupid behaviour such as this has been around the campus — it's only now that it gets widespread public attention outside that they act.

Synopsis

Once again the story focuses on the Lambert family — wife Renai (Rose Byrne), husband Josh (Patrick Wilson), kids Dalton and Foster (Ty Simpkins and Andrew Astor) and grandma Lorraine (Barbara Hershey). After the haunting events of the first movie they have moved in an effort to put the past behind them. Unfortunately they can't escape the ghosts who are attracted to what Josh has — life! Increasingly terrifying encounters with spirits threatens not only Josh's safety but the safety of everyone who comes into contact with him.

Patrick Wilson stars in Insidious: Chapter 2. CONTRIBUTED

Where are the scares?

Insidious: Chapter 2.

A confusing story and clunky dialogue get in the way of the thrills and chills in James Wan's film

Richard: Mark, jumping around in time and between the realm of the living and the great beyond, this story will be confusing to anyone who hasn't seen the original. But say what you will about the storytelling, no one else makes mainstream horror films like James Wan. Maybe it's best to think of Insidious: Chapter 2 as like taking a walk through a haunted house. The exhilaration comes from the scares, not the walk. Did it make your spine tingle?

Mark: No, Richard, I was too busy trying to decipher what was going on. My spine doesn't tingle when it's exhausted. I do think Wan was ambitious in juggling all those space and time plots, and his atmospherics were first rate. But I actually might criticize the acting here — there were a lot of clunky line readings. Lin Shaye, however, as the ghostly clairvoyant, steals the picture whenever she's onscreen. And Barbara Hershey? Hottest grandma ever!

RC: Ha! There may be the odd clunky line reading, but with her delicate features and downturned mouth, Rose Byrne does shock face like no one else. I also liked Patrick Wilson. He looks like the clean-cut guy next door, but when he's inhabited by evil spirits, boy, does he get ornery! I also liked that it was a horror film that doesn't rely on gore to get a rise out of the audience. The plasma budget must have been practically zero, but what it lacks in gore it makes up for in smoke, shadows and eerie red doors.

MB: Yes, no gore; Wan has certainly moved on from Saw. But what you call shock face I might call overacting, and seeing Patrick Wilson cast against type is a bit of a mixed blessing. But in the end, it's still a story about possession and hauntings, and we might just be at the saturation point of the genre. The creaky old house doesn't help. Someday someone's going to set a film like this in an airy modernist penthouse, illustrating the horrors of light and white leather sofas.

RC: And they'll call it A Haunting at Ikea: The Mournful Tale of Billy the Wobbly Bookcase! I think I'll stick to the old school creaky house with a dark basement for ghouls to hide in.

MB: Dark basements are scary, but so are balconies on the 40th floor. I'm not sure where I'd find the ghouls more dangerous!

Onscreen Nelson Mandelas

George Harris:
Prisoners of Conscience
(1981)

A familiar face from the Harry Potter and Indiana Jones franchises, Harris was the first English-language speaker to play Mandela, in an episode of this BBC political documentary series. Released while Mandela was still in prison, it's nearly impossible to find a copy of Prisoners of Conscience today.

Danny Glover:
Mandela (1987)

Airing three years before Mandela's release from prison, this HBO original film featured Lethal Weapon's Glover alongside Alfre Woodard as Winnie, chronicling his rise to prominence and incarceration. The high-profile film scored Glover an Emmy nomination.

Sidney Poitier:
Mandela and de Klerk
(1997)

What a cast here: Academy Award-winner Poitier stars alongside Michael Caine (as South African president F.W. de Klerk). It details the behind-the-scenes negotiations that led to the legalization of the African National Congress — and Mandela's release. Like Glover, Poitier was nominated for an Emmy.

Dennis Haysbert:
Goodbye Bafana
(2007)

The president from 24 playing the president! Haysbert is pitted against Joseph Fiennes' racist prison guard, whose detail guarding Mandela brings about a change of heart.

Idris Elba's turn as Nelson Mandela in Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom made its big debut at the Toronto International Film Festival this month with clear awards aspirations. Elba is far from the first actor to take on Mandela's inspiring story — he's been portrayed on screen more than a dozen times — but he could be the first man to win an Oscar for playing him. Here's how some of his previous on-screen incarnations measured up.

Metro World News in Hollywood

Clarke Peters: Endgame (2009)

The end of apartheid — and the behind-the-scenes negotiations that brought about its end — is examined again, this time with Mandela taking more of a supporting role. The Wire vet Peters, starring opposite William Hurt and Jonny Lee Miller of Elementary, embodies Mandela as his time in prison comes to an end.

Morgan Freeman: Invictus (2009)

In the role he was destined to play, Freeman is Mandela as newly-elected president and attempts to unite post-Apartheid South Africa through a love of rugby. Freeman would be nominated for an Oscar, alongside co-star Matt Damon.

Terrence Howard: Winnie (2011)

Mandela's second wife Winnie Madikizela-Mandela is the star here, played by Jennifer Hudson. The film details her childhood, her own incarceration and struggles with adversity both during Mandela's imprisonment and afterward. Howard (Iron Man) plays Mandela as a charmbot.

Idris Elba: Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom (2013)

Expected to be the definitive biopic, this awards-hopeful follows Mandela from childhood to his first presidential inauguration — with Skyfall co-star Naomie Harris as Winnie. It's based on Mandela's own 1994 memoir. Stringer Bell for best actor?

Finding the Canadian in Kurt

The Art of the Steal.

Jay Baruchel had a great time on set with co-star Kurt Russell

scene@metronews.ca

"You show up on set and you look over here and there's Kurt Russell and there's Terence Stamp," says Jay Baruchel of shooting his new film The Art of the Steal. "And you think, 'I have a pretty cool gig.'"

The heist film sees Kurt Russell and Matt Dillon as Crunch and Nicky Calhoun, brothers and art thieves who haven't worked together since Nicky snitched on Crunch and sent him to prison. Years later they team up to steal one of the world's rarest books, but will the job lead to more double-crossing?

Baruchel co-stars in this twisty-turny movie as Crunch's

The Art of the Steal opens in theatres next Friday. CONTRIBUTED sidekick and protégé, which meant he got to spend a great deal of time with Russell.

"It's one of these things where if we didn't get along at all we would find a way to fake it but what really helped is that we were two Chatty Cathys. I would ask him every conceivable thing. Every John Carpenter story. Stuff about Tango and Cash. Stuff about Tombstone, one of my very favourite movies of all time.

"He was cool to talk about all of it so whenever cut was called Kurt and I would go outside and have a cigarette and talk. We talked about everything. We talked about politics. We talked movies, sports. He's a Canadianophile as well, so the man has some real Canadian bona fides. So when it comes time to say action, there's an energy, a connection, a shorthand because we enjoy one another's company.

"It can be faked, but it's way less fun and way more work."

Working with one of his heroes wasn't the only reason Baruchel signed on.

"Like any job I take, I look at the opportunity," he says. "I look at who I'm going to work with, what it's about and where it's going to be and would I pay money to see it. This checked every box on my criteria."

Chief among those yardsticks is a strong Canadian element. The actor is a vocal supporter of the homegrown industry who says, "We need to make more movies here that take place here and we will not hide our Canadian-ness."

The Art of the Steal fits the bill. It was shot in Niagara Falls, a place he calls "a very specific part of the world, equal parts gorgeous and seedy and strange and disarming. The whole thing is a back lot. You put a camera there anywhere and you have production value up your ass."

Action/Comedy

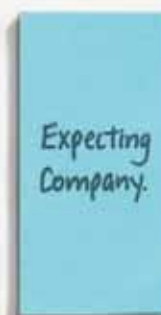

The Family

Director. Luc Besson

Stars. Robert De Niro, Michelle Pfeiffer

This fish-out-of-water story sees The Manzonis: Maggie (Michelle Pfeiffer), Belle (Diane Aron), Warren (John D'Leo) and father, hit-man-turned-stoolie Giovanni (Robert De Niro), in witness protection in Normandy. Overseen by an FBI handler (Tommy Lee Jones), they try and fit in. Trouble is, they don't blend. The Family is a Bobby D mob flick, so it isn't terrible, and co-star Michelle Pfeiffer, brings back fond memories of Married to the Mob, but the film teases us with visions of De Niro in gangster mode and lets us down with a paint-by-numbers story. RICHARD CROUSE

3 songs for the weekend you need to hear

SOUND CHECK

Alan Cross
scene@metronews.ca

It's an all-Canadian affair today with a mix of vets and newcomers.

Reservoir / Pup

This new Toronto four-piece is being noticed by websites around the planet. This is honest, unvarnished rock 'n' roll, complete with blemishes. Acquaint yourself now.

King of Copenhagen / The Mahones

They've been on their Angels & Devils album for more than a year now. Their latest video was pasted together from nothing but fan-shot footage. Well done!

Arrows of Desire / Matthew Good

Matt's new album is a back-to-basics affair, inspired in part by his favourite Pixies and Husker Du records. Arrows of Desire will be out Sept. 24.

What do Modern Vampires listen to?

Chief songwriters speak. Ezra Koenig and Rostam Batmanglij tell Metro what songs and bands influenced them greatly on their journey to stardom

PAT HEALY
Metro World News in NYC

As Vampire Weekend prepared to go on the road for another set of dates, main men Ezra Koenig and Rostam Batmanglij were right where they belonged earlier this week — helping as guest editors to our Metro papers in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Throughout two hour-long discussions with VW's chief songwriters, music obviously comes up a lot.

The references Koenig and Batmanglij throw around are often surprising. The title of their new album comes from the song One Blood by reggae artist Junior Reid. Here is a sampling of a few of the other artists the pair discussed.

"Kanye is probably the greatest artist of our generation, and he's always talking about how he doesn't give a f—, but he's also always talking about how he does give a f—. It's two sides of the same coin. I would love to eventually get to a place where I could be so relaxed and be like, 'As long as we think it's good, nothing in the world matters.' But that's not exactly what this whole world of music that we participate in is about."

Batmanglij

"Ezra was kind of inspired by some things, one of them being this song Step to My Girl by Souls of Mischief, which you should check out. ... They were a West Coast rap group. I think they made that song when they were 15. It's kind of like a lost song."

Koenig

"If you grew up obsessing about pop music and idolizing people like The Clash or Radiohead or Prince, who were able to have long careers in which they changed a lot, part of that is because in addition to following their own visions, they were also able to create things that mattered to people. I think that it's really cool that The Clash came out and made this early punk album that had all this energy and got people talking, and then six or seven years later they made this dancey hip-hop song about the Middle East that was like, a huge hit."

Batmanglij

"The Walkmen should be bigger, they are a great band. But I think there's a lot of people that feel the way we do."

Koenig

"I went on a drive last week and I was listening to the ASAP Ferg album. I thought there were some really great songs on it. I liked his vibe and I think it's a well-crafted album. And then I saw it debuted in the top 10, and it's his first album and I was like, 'Well, that seems about right.' That's cool that people are excited about that."

Rwanda

Aguilera's African aid trip bettered her

Christina Aguilera says that although she went to Rwanda to help others, she ended up helping herself. The 32-year-old singer visited Rwanda in June for a hunger relief effort. She said the experience helped her ground herself. "It came at a time in my life when I really needed to be far removed from anything to do with work or being on camera," the Grammy winner said in a recent interview. "It came at a time in my life when I needed to experience what's going on with the world beyond entertainment."

Candid Kendra glad to be back On Top

Season 2. Former playboy bunny can't wait for viewers to experience her life outside of marriage and motherhood

ANISA ARSENAULT

Metro World News in NYC

You identified with her Olive Garden obsession in The Girls Next Door. You did her On Demand ab workouts. You were there every step of the way as she planned her wedding in Kendra. Kendra Wilkinson-Baskett has dominated reality television since 2005. And she's still got more to give. Kendra On Top will return for season two this weekend.

The move from the show Kendra on E! to Kendra On Top on WETV gave Wilkinson-Baskett the chance to rebrand herself. "Our goal was to reintroduce Kendra again, in a different light," she says. "Season one was about finding a career, being a parent, being a wife — kind of reintroducing me under another network, and reminding people who I am." But season two will dive right in.

"My audience understands where I'm at now; we're pretty much up to date with everything," Wilkinson-Baskett says. "This season is not about me being a parent or about me being married. It's about being a human being, the struggles of what that means, and how I get through it." According to Wilkinson-Baskett, those struggles are real. "This is the most organic show you can get," she says. "Sure, we have creative little tie-ins. But the overall story is 100 per cent my life."

Why such a strong commitment to the reality of reality TV? "I find it very therapeutic to be able to tell my story, and not hide it," she says. "We've been shooting season two of Kendra On Top for about a year now. There's a lot that goes on in a year. Everybody goes through spurts. There are some people who hide those spurts and blow up later. But I'm an open book."

What are some of those "spurts" for Kendra? As husband Hank Baskett develops his career at his gym Athletic Gaines, tensions run high. "There's an episode where you'll get a chance to see what happens when his business mixes with my business, and it ends up not being such a great thing," she says. "It ends up being a complete disaster. You'll get a chance to see how we get through it, together."

Despite their professional differences, Wilkinson-Baskett remains supportive of her hubby's career. "The gym is really the most amazing place ever," she says.

Bob Odenkirk a.k.a. Saul Goodman. CONTRIBUTED

Breaking Bad spinoff will be all about Saul

Breaking Bad fans will be ecstatic to learn that there is a new chapter in the show after it ends: Saul Goodman is getting his own spinoff series, tentatively called Better Call Saul. Television's funniest, slimiest fictional lawyer, Saul Goodman is returning to AMC with a one hour show that acts as a prequel to Breaking Bad. Bob Odenkirk, also of Adult Swim fame, will reprise his role as Saul. METRO Cheating in the U.S.A.? Has Hemsworth got hands in January's cookie jar?

Rumours about Liam Hemsworth stepping out on fiancée Miley Cyrus are resurfacing after the Hunger Games star reportedly sent a rather forward text message to January Jones, according to Us Weekly. "I want to f--- you," Hemsworth allegedly wrote to the Mad Men actress, with whom he was reportedly spotted making out at an Oscars after-party earlier this year. Hemsworth's rep, however, insists it's all nonsense. "The story of Liam Hemsworth and January Jones is entirely fabricated by US Weekly. There is no truth whatsoever to this tabloid fiction," the rep says in a statement.

Cinematic source says Heigl, 'can cost you time every single day of shooting'

Katherine Heigl

According to several film and TV insiders, Katherine Heigl is too difficult and demanding to work with, telling the Hollywood Reporter that casting the former Grey's Anatomy actress is "not worth it." A source from her 2010 film Life As We Know It says, "She can cost you time every single day of shooting.

Wardrobe issues, not getting out of the trailer, questioning the script every single day." And a TV executive says Heigl's reputation kept her out of consideration for a role in a new series. "On many levels, she would have been perfect for the role, but all of us said, 'She's not worth it,'" the exec says.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

It seems Demi wants a man with Moore years under his belt

Demi Moore is reportedly dating billionaire restaurant mogul Peter Morton, the 66-year-old father of her ex-boyfriend Harry Morton, according to Grazia. "Demi says that thanks to Peter, her toy-boy fascination could be over," a source says. "At 66, she never thought he'd be her type, but she really likes him." And apparently the same goes for her daughters. "The girls are glad Demi is dating someone older than herself for once," the source adds.

Does Cara light up Harry's world like nobody else?

Harry Styles

Harry Styles reportedly has a new lady in his life. The One Direction member has been dating Cara Delevingne "for around two weeks," according to E! Online. "Harry's been chasing Cara nonstop. He really likes her and has been saying that he wants to be exclusive with her," a source says. But right now, Cara is not sure what to do. "She's finding her feet right now. They are seeing each other though, casually, and are actually very cute together. He's really chasing her, but she's a really busy girl," the source says.

Peter Rockwell

Our Royal Mint will be releasing coins to celebrate the 75th anniversary of Clark Kent's alter ego, and it got me thinking about a style of wine that also has a reputation for being super.

Italy's super Tuscans were conceived back in the 1970s as a liquid rebellion against the Chianti region's archaic winemaking regulations. Some winemakers went rogue by growing and then blending local and global grape varieties.

While Italians initially turned their collective noses up at this sacrilege, they were a hit everywhere else. Soon they were commanding prices as high as Italy's best, which earned them the heroic nickname.

It isn't legally defined terminology, so any winery in Tuscan adding non-traditional grapes to their blend can claim super Tuscan status. That's made it easier to find a drinkable version that doesn't break the bank.

The 2008 Monte Antico Toscana IGT ($15.95 to $18.99) is primarily sangiovese with a small portion of both merlot and cabernet sauvignon. The result is a rich wine with deep plum and black cherry core that offers terrific value.

A classic with pizza, it's equally at home paired with most red meats.

CELEBRATING THE FAMILY

CENTREPOINTE THEATRES MARKING 25 YEARS IN THE COMMUNITY

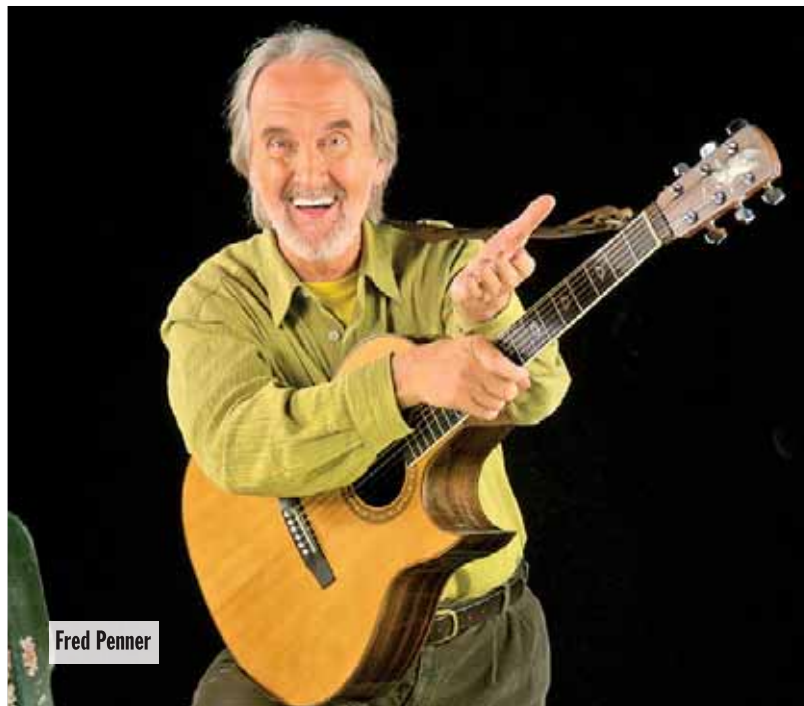

From Dora the Explorer to the Doodle-boops, CentrepoinTE theatres has always been a place where kids can see their favourite characters come to life on stage. The municipal performing arts venue may be all grown up now, at the ripe old age of 25, but the theatres' artistic producer vows it will still be a place where kids and children at heart can enjoy quality family entertainment.

"We took a hard look at our numbers and listened to our patrons and we decided it was time to make family programming a real focus," says Allan Sansom, CentrepoinTE theatres' artistic producer and manager.

Television sensations the Wild Kratts, Canadian children's entertainment legend Fred Penner, as well as shows based on famous children's books The Snail and the Whale and Pinkalicious are all coming to CentrepoinTE this season.

Great options for the family can be found in the music, variety and comedy series' as well. There is an illusionist who produces goldfish out of thin air, a comedy circus act from Montreal, and a musical group that fuses classical with hip hop.

"The shows are high quality and the pre- and post-show activities such as tea parties, autograph sessions and juggling workshops provide even more value to the consumer," says Sara-Lynne Levine, editor and publisher of the Ottawa Capital Region Macaroni Kid website.

DIFFERENT VIBE AND ENERGY

There is nothing kids love more than to dance, and soon four- to 10-year-olds will have the opportunity to bust a move in a club designed just for them.

This fall and spring, the CentrepoinTE Studio Theatre will become kick IT — a dance club for kids — one of several, regular, interactive and affordable events that have been added to the CentrepoinTE theatres Presents 2013-14 season.

"CentrepoinTE theatres has been a community hub for 25 years," says Allan Sansom, artistic producer and manager of the west-end facility. "We wanted to make sure that tradition continues by programming events that give families and seniors a chance to meet regularly and be entertained without breaking the bank."

For between $5 and $12, patrons can enjoy a number of new events, including Game & Groove, an afternoon or evening of board games, music, food and fun.

"Each Game & Groove is being tailored to a different age group," says Stephane Gonthier of Dynamix Productions, an Ottawa DJ and event sponsor. "At one event, adults will feel like they are hanging out in a funky lounge, while another event aimed at teens and tweens will have a much different soundtrack and energy."

And that's not all. Ottawa's own Crush Improv will entertain audiences monthly with two rotating comedy shows called Spotlight On ... and Capital Crush. As well, there is a classical music series that serves up the work of great composers along with tea and treats. Together with the CentrepoinTE theatres Presents big-name mainstage shows, Ottawans are sure to fill their entertainment calendars this season.

Dates and details on all the events can be found at centrepointetheatres.com.

SATIRICAL REVUE TACKLES THE WORKPLACE

What do you talk about while standing around the water cooler at work? Not telling?

Well, your secrets aren't safe anymore. A comedy troupe from New York is not only focusing a spotlight on those conversations — it's singing about it.

It's all happening in the first show of the CentrepoinTE theatres Presents season. The municipal theatre, located in the city's west end, is featuring The Water Coolers on Oct. 18 at 8 p.m.

"This musical comedy revue is perfect for a city like Ottawa where there are so many people working in office cubicles from 9 to 5 every day," says Allan Sansom, the artistic producer and manager of CentrepoinTE theatres. "It's like watching The Office set to music."

The Water Coolers was created in 2000 by Thomas Michael Allen, a management consultant and creator of the long-running New York hit Tony n' Tina's Wedding. The cast includes Broadway talent, with current company members' performing credits including Rock of Ages, The Drowsy Chaperone, Spamalot, Wicked, The Lion King, Mama Mia, Grease, and many more.

Hailed as "a breezy, satirical Dilbert-like musical revue that tickles the ears and funny bones" by The Associated Press, The Water Coolers celebrates, and skewers, work, life and balancing the two.

"Their performances are top notch and their observations are on the money," Sansom says.

EXPERIENCE CLASSICAL MUSIC IN A NEW WAY

WITH NAC CASUAL FRIDAYS

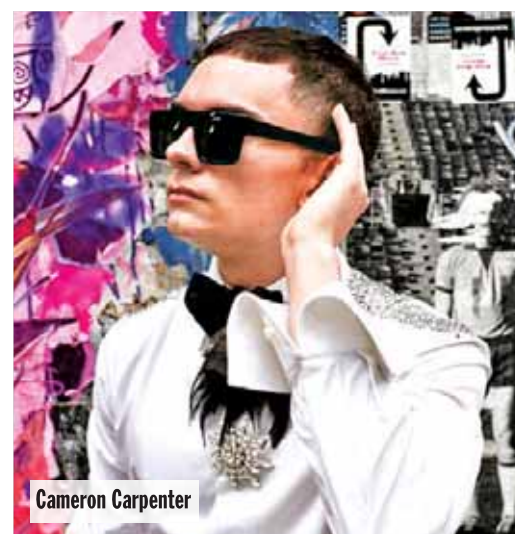

The National Arts Centre's new Casual Fridays series promises to start with a bang, given that organist Cameron Carpenter is the featured performer. Internationally recognized as a prodigious talent, Carpenter combines a deep respect for tradition with a relentless passion for innovation.

"He's a poster boy for post-modernism and inclusivity," says Andrea Hossack communications officer for the NAC orchestra. "He continually reinvents the classical repertoire by embracing all interpretations."

On Nov. 1, Carpenter will join conductor Alexander Shelley and the NAC Orchestra in performances of Berlioz's Symphonie fantastique and Carpenter's own The Scandal. The event is the first in the NAC's three-part Casual Fridays series — designed as relaxed, highly social evenings of entertainment. Patrons begin by mingling to the sounds of live jazz in the NAC lobby while sipping wine and nibbling on tapas. A full 90-minute performance in Southam Hall is immediately followed by a reception on the mezzanine with complementary coffee and tea, a cash bar, and visits from members of the NAC Orchestra.

"Our goal is to create a new way of experiencing classical music in a sexy, foodie environment," says Natalie Rumschidt, senior marketing strategist for the NAC Orchestra. "Carpenter is ideal for Casual Fridays. He's a young, dynamic and engaging performer who connects well with both traditional and new audiences. It promises to be a remarkable evening."

The featured jazz musicians for Nov. 1 are Renee Yoxon and Mark Ferguson. The Casual Fridays series continues in 2014 with events scheduled for March 7 and June 6.

The Casual Fridays evening starts at 5:45 p.m. with a glass of wine or other beverage and some tasty tapas prepared by the NAC's culinary team accompanied by the sounds of live jazz. The cost for the tapas is $20 for a variety of delectable small plates. Tickets will be available in advance and in the lobby the night of the performance.

A 90-minute orchestral performance (without intermission) begins at 7 p.m. A post-concert reception on the mezzanine begins immediately afterwards, with complementary coffee and tea, and a cash bar. Mingle with fellow music lovers and members of the NAC Orchestra until 9:30 p.m.

NHL. New winger says himself, Spezza and Michalek could be 'very dangerous' together

From the moment Bobby Ryan was traded to Ottawa, fans of the Senators quickly started imagining how good he would look on a line beside Jason Spezza.

The pair skated alongside Milan Michalek on the first day of on-ice training and already the buzz is building as to what the trio could accomplish. Michalek has great speed, Spezza has great vision and Ryan can finish, the question will be

In the back of his mind

"You hope it's done, but you're never out of the woods with a back injury."

whether they can put all the pieces together.

"I think there's the makings of a very good line and a line that can contend with anybody," said Ryan. "We're all pretty crafty with the puck so if things click right away it could be a very dangerous line and you hope it does."

Ryan, 26, is a four-time thirty-goal scorer and offers Spezza a bona fide offensive right-winger for the first time since Dany Heatley, who had back-to-back 50-goal seasons playing with Spezza.

Still, Spezza said it will take time to get used to each other.

"There's no real rhyme or reason why you have chemistry with a guy other than you just feel each other out, you learn where each other goes and it's not something that can really be forced either," said Spezza. "I think the more we play together, the more familiar we'll get and we'll figure out if our games mesh well."

The 30-year-old Spezza played just five games last season before requiring back surgery for a herniated disc. He managed to return and play in three playoff games, but it was clear at the time that he was nowhere near fully recovered.

After the playoffs it was disclosed that Spezza had torn the meniscus in his knee late in his rehab process, so he also had his knee scoped over the summer.

"I'm definitely 100 per cent right now, I feel really good," said Spezza. "It was nice to have a full summer of training and hopefully I can reap the rewards of it." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Manning bros hit Broadway Sunday

Brotherly love. Peyton and Eli maintain a close relationship throughout the bright lights of the NFL

Peyton Manning loves Eli's game, and not just because he's his little brother.

As a fellow NFL quarterback, he appreciates the way Eli has improved every year despite an ever-changing supporting cast, all while working under the bright glare of Broadway.

Oh, and those two Super Bowl rings are pretty sweet, too. Big brother has just one of those.

The siblings square off Sunday at MetLife Stadium, the third — and quite possibly last — time they'll face each other in the pros. Peyton came out on top in the first two, with his old team, the Indianapolis Colts, beating the New York Giants in 2006 and '10.

Peyton, 37, sees Eli, 32, through the dual prism of blood and quarterback brotherhood, and he's thoroughly impressed by the view.

"Eli is a great player," Peyton said. "He's a consistent player. I think he's gotten better every year."

The Mannings talk twice a week on average — last season they played the same divisions in the NFC and AFC, so they shared notes on those common opponents.

"Usually we'll talk on Sunday or Monday after the previous game and then we'll kind of talk maybe Thursday or Friday kind of about the upcoming game," Peyton said. "We've always done that. We'll share."

Not this week.

They both said there was no football dialogue leading up to Manning Bowl III, just the typical bantering among brothers. There's been enough chatter from everyone else. Aside from the "first family of football" angle, this is the first game in NFL history pitting quarterbacks who threw for 400-plus yards the previous week.

Peyton threw for 462 yards and tied an NFL record with seven touchdown passes against Baltimore. Like Peyton, Eli also completed 27 of 42 throws, and he accumulated 450 yards at Dallas but had three interceptions to go with four TDs.

It seems as though everyone likes to compare the Mannings. Except the Mannings. They leave it to others to argue who's the superior quarterback, the better performer in the clutch, the leading pitchman, even.

They insist they don't have that typical sibling rivalry where they're always trying to one up each other.

"Eli and I end up being partners a lot in golf, to tell you the truth. We're close," Peyton said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Get loud!

Seahawks fans look to roar into the record books

Some of the loudest NFL fans in the country are attempting to become the loudest in the world.

This Sunday, Seattle Seahawks fans will attempt to break the Guinness Book of World Records mark for loudest stadium, or officially "loudest crowd roar at a sports stadium," which was set in 2011 in Turkey at the Ali Sami Yen Sport Complex Turk Telekom Arena during a soccer match between Galatasaray SC and Fenerbahce.

The record is 131.76 decibels.

Seahawks fans are already known to be noisy, but on Sunday the game will be against the division rival San Francisco 49ers, the reigning NFC champs, and the stakes are already high for an early season game. The game is a sell out.

Boxing

Promoter aims to break pay-per-view record for Sunday's fight

If Richard Schaefer looked a bit nervous standing near his fighters on a massive stage this week at the MGM Grand, he had good reason.

In a city of high rollers, on one of the biggest betting days of the year, the head of Golden Boy Promotions is taking the biggest gamble of all. He's got $60 million on the line that Floyd Mayweather Jr. and Canelo Alvarez will not only deliver a great fight, but deliver at the box office too. He's betting the 152-pound matchup between two unbeaten fighters will be a blockbuster, perhaps the richest fight ever.

"My goal is to break the record," Schaefer said. "I think we will do two million homes, which will make it the single biggest pay-per-view in boxing."

If it is, it will be largely because Golden Boy is charging the single biggest price for a boxing match, a whopping $74.95 if you want to watch in HD. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Davis Cup. Pospisil set to take on Djokovic in opening match

Vasek Pospisil knows his first career match against the world's best tennis player isn't going to be easy, so he's happy he'll be getting it over with early in Canada's Davis Cup semifinal tie against Serbia.

The 23-year-old from Vancouver will face the No. 1-ranked Novak Djokovic in Friday's opening singles match at the Kombank Arena.

With Pospisil also playing doubles, getting his toughest match out of the way gives him time to rest before teaming up with veteran Daniel Nestor on Saturday in doubles.

Djokovic only arrived Wednesday night after losing a gruelling four-set match to Rafael Nadal in the U.S. Open final on Monday. There was a concern that Djokovic may be rested Friday and saved for Sunday's much-anticipated match against top-ranked Canadian Milos Raonic.

Djokovic assured the large gathering of Serbian media Thursday he will be ready to go when the best-of-five tie kicks off Friday.

"It's not the first time that I have two days time to get ready," said Djokovic. "It's obvious that I'm tired because I've had a long hard-court season and jetlag and time changes can play a factor to my adjusting to the conditions but I feel quite healthy and very much motivated and inspired to play for my country."

The 11th-ranked Raonic will play Janko Tipsarevic in the second match Friday.

Canada, which upset Spain and Italy in Vancouver to advance, has never played in the Davis Cup semifinals before.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

One area of your life will grind to a halt and maybe even go into reverse today. You may not be happy about it but what can you do? Sometimes you just have to accept what occurs.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Life is not and never will be a level playing field — some people are good at things that others will never master. Once you accept that, you can just get on with your life.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You enjoy causing waves and something you say today will no doubt infuriate people who don't share your views. You need to remind them that their opinions, while valid, are not the be all and end all.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You cannot change the world, so don't waste time trying. What you can do though is change your own way of looking at the world. If your outlook is positive, your future will be positive too.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The winds of change are blowing at gale force and if you don't hold onto something, there is a chance you might get swept away. What is most stable in your life? Grasp it.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are things going on behind the scenes that will change your world in major ways but that is no reason to worry. Looking back later in the year, you will realize how wonderful they were.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Someone you don't get along with will make their usual fuss today and you should tell them that you've had enough of their dramatics. If they don't shut up then ship them out.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It takes courage to choose a different path when the one you are on is so familiar but there is no other choice. If you don't change now, you could be stuck with the same old routine for years to come.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

A plan you had high hopes for will have to be put on the back burner for a while. According to the planets, it needs more time to mature in your mind.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Everything that happens in life is part of the grand design. Remember that and you won't go wrong. If you want to win at the game of life, you must let go and trust the universe.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may be sad that a friend is moving away but the space their departure leaves will be filled by someone else. Life is never static, nor are relationships. You may not like change but ultimately it is good.

Pisces

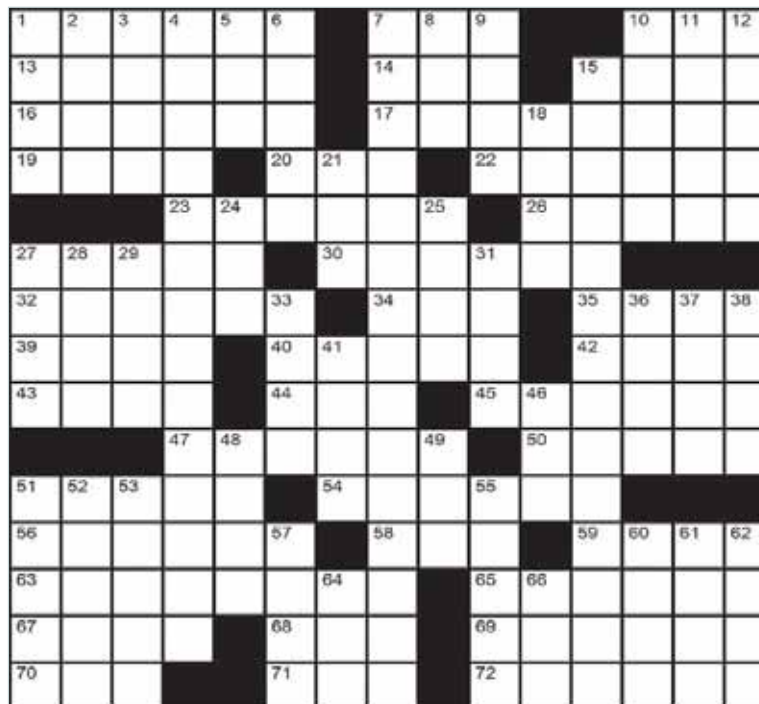

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may be the sort who can bluff your way through most situations but the planets warn you have bitten off more than you can chew this time. A penalty of some kind will have to be paid before you can move on. SALLY BROMPTON
